(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Shepherdsville, Ky., Dec. 21.—

The death toll taken last night when Louisville & Nashville fast train No.

7, from Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear-end of a Louisville,

Bardonia and Springfield accommodation train a few hundred feet south of the railroad station here, had reached 47 today.

The number killed was at first placed by W. F. Sheridan, superintendent of the Louisville division of the Louisville

& Nashville, at 38. Revision of this figure caused by additional deaths from among those badly injured increased the total to 47.

The wreck, which is said to be the worst in the history of the Louisville

& Nashville, occurred just after the local train had pulled out of the station here. It had gone only a short distance when the other train came into sight, traveling at a high rate of speed. Before it could be halted it had crashed into the slower-moving train ahead and made kindling wood of the two wooden passenger-coaches it carried.

The locomotive pulling the fast train was badly damaged by the impact, but the engineer and fireman escaped with a few bruises. The heavy steel coaches it pulled were undamaged, with the exception of one baggage car, and the train was able to proceed thereafter. A second locomotive had been secured from Louisville, and the wreckage of the local train cleared from the right-of-way.

Blame for the disaster seems to

ILLINOIS BANKERS

OUR LOCAL SLEUTH

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, Dec. 21.—A vigilance committee was formed last night by the Cook County Bankers' club to co-operate with the authorities in an effort to curb bank robberies in Illinois. The committee, in addition to giving active aid to police, will strive for revision of the criminal and parole laws, which the bankers say work to the advantage of robbers. The action of a long series of robberies around in Chicago, the most recent being the theft of approximately $42,000 from the Summit State bank yesterday. The bankers called attention to the fact, that

Illinois leads every state in bank robberies, that 95 per cent. of bank robberies are in the midwest and that in the past 30 days banks in Chicago and suburbs alone have lost more than $100,000 through robberies.

GERMANS HAVE NOT BEEN HOLDING OWN ON WESTERN FRONT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Dec. 20.—Although allied hopes had not been realized because of the Russian collapse, Premier Lloyd George told the house of commons today that the Germans had not been able to quite hold their own in the west. At the beginning of the year the Russian army was better equipped than at any period of the war and its collapse was not due to unskillful leadership or lack of valor on the part of the troops. Had the Russian army continued to collaborate with the Anglo-French and Italian armies in pressing the Germans "we should have been able to bring such pressure on the Prussian army as to inflict a decisive defeat upon them."

On the western front the Germans had been beaten in many battles. The premier declared they had lost 100,000 prisoners, valuable ground and hundreds of guns. While the campaign in France had not realized the expectations formed there had been military successes which he ventured to say would have a permanent effect on the future of the world. The premier said he referred to the capture of Baghdad and Jerusalem, adding:

"These two great events added more to the prestige of Great Britain throughout the world than any event in the whole course of the war. A good deal has been said about 'side shows' but Great Britain owes a good deal to these."

Premier Lloyd George referred to the fact that the aggregate ship building at the present, when millions of persons were taken from labor, was above the boom year of 1913, and declared it was a very creditable performance.

The destruction of German submarines, he said, had gone up steadily during the year. This was remarkable and encouraging because it showed how admirably the shipping controller really was grappling with the most menacing situation with which Great Britain is confronted in this war.

The effect of German control of shipping, the premier continued, was that although the aggregate tonnage was down by something like 20 per cent., Great Britain had lost only six per cent of her imports. This was only six per cent. less than last year in tons. Had it not been for the skillful way in which shipping had been handled it would have been impossible for Great Britain to carry through this year and to help the allies to the extent she had.

AUTO BANDITS ROB CLEVELAND BANK THIS AFTERNOON

Cleveland, Dec. 21.—Bandits held up and robbed the East 79th street branch of the Garfield Savings bank this afternoon and escaped with $5,400 in money. The robbers, numbering eight or ten walked into the bank and covered the seven men and three women clerks with revolvers, scooped up all the money in sight and after firing several shots in the air, presumably to frighten off pursuers, escaped in an auto.

Bank officials first estimated the amount of money secured at $5,000 but after checking up their cash found that the robbers got away with $5,400.

The driver of the bandit auto was captured by the police an hour after the robbery. The driver said the robbers hired him to drive them to the bank and that he did not know their identity.

TAKE SOLDIERS BACK.
Cincinnati, Dec. 21.—Eight soldiers who had taken French leave from Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., several days ago when the orders were received revoking turloughs were rounded up here today and returned to the camp. Federal officers are trying to locate several others in Cincinnati who are missing from Camp Sherman.

CO-ORDINATION IN COMBINING ORGANIZATIONS

Major Glenn Announces a Plan For Greatly Increased Efficiency

GARFIELD NAMED HEAD OHIO WAR COMMISSION

Director Lake Division of Red Cross—Eliminates
Conflicts In Work

Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Dec. 21.—Greatly increased efficiency on the part of both the lake division of the Red Cross insofar as it includes Ohio and the state of Ohio war commission is looked for as a result of the appointment of James R. Garfield as director of the lake division of the Red Cross, to head the war commission. The appointment was announced yesterday by Major E. F. Glenn in an address before the Chillicothe chapter of the Red Cross.

Co-ordination of the efforts of the two organizations in the state with a gradual elimination of the one will follow as a result of Mr. Garfield's appointment, it is expected. Activities of the two organizations have paralleled each other along many lines, it was said here today, but from now on the new arrangement will eliminate all conflicts as regards the scope of their work.

The state of Ohio war commission was formed with branches in all cities and towns of the state to care for the individual needs of the soldiers to take business and domestic troubles off their hands and to leave them free to devote their entire energies to their training here. The commission also supervised the football games which were played by the 83rd division team for the benefit of the division. It is to handle the showing of the big moving picture film which will bring home to every Ohioan the actual life of the selects every hour of the day. It was organized to meet actual needs which demanded the formation of some such body to care for the men. Officers here said today. In many ways it has unavoidably duplicated the work of the Red Cross and with the gradual expansion of the work (Continued on Page 13, Col. 3.)

SIX PRISONERS ARE GRANTED AN XMAS PARDON

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Dec. 21.—A Christmas gift of freedom was granted six prisoners in the Ohio State Penitentiary by Governor James M. Cox today. It is the largest number of prisoners to receive clemency at Christmas time in many years.

The Christmas pardons went to the following men:

Burt Highwarden, sentenced from Champaign county for second degree murder, life sentence dating from January, 1912.

Jack Conway, sentenced from Montgomery county for robbery in April, 1917, for from one to fifteen years.

J. J. McKenna, sentenced from Wood county for grand larceny in September, 1917, for from one to seven years.

John Truss, negro, sentenced from Franklin county for life for second degree murder in December, 1908. He was one of the original honor system men and recently has been a house man in the warden's residence.

Robert Price, sentenced from Clark county in January, 1917, for from one to twenty-years for cutting to wound.

James Bradshaw, sentenced from Scioto county in September, 1917, for from one to seven years for assault to kill.

"Where we can increase the productive energy of the state by granting freedom we are doing it," said a statement from Governor Cox when the pardons were announced today. "No case receives consideration unless we are convinced that the community in question has recovered from the shock of the crime."

"There are more prisoners in the penitentiary than ever before and this probably is caused by the indeterminate sentence law. The spirit of this law is to keep the men under the control of the state and a conditional pardon is the proper remedy. Clemency in each case is based upon the circumstances surrounding the crime and the prisoner must have the confidence of the warden and the board of clemency and must have given their evidence of reformation."

"In practically all the cases it is imposed that the recipient of clemency is not to touch liquor or go where it is sold. Most of them will return to support dependent relatives."

FISH DINNERS FOR XMAS.
(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Dec. 21.—With Christmas falling on a meatless day and poultry of all kind scarce and high, fish may be the principal dish for many holiday dinners, leading market men said today.

Turkeys will cost from 40 to 50 cents a pound and they will be unusually scarce. Other poultry will cost more than usual for this season of the year.

MEN WOULD AVERT A THREATENED STRIKE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Toledo, Dec. 21.—To avert a threatened strike of employees of the Toledo Railway and Light company, an appeal was sent late last night to Secretary of Labor Wilson asking that an investigation be made by the federal government of local street railway conditions. The appeal was sent by representatives of the car men and men's unions after they had failed to reach an agreement with H. L. Dougherty, operating head of local railway system. An advance in wages of 10 cents an hour is asked by the car men and a graduated increase by the electrical workers, based on the present minimum scale.

SECRET TREATY BETWEEN JAPAN AND RUSSIANS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Petrograd, Dec. 21.—Under the heading "Secret treaty between Japan and Russia for joint armed demonstration against America and Great Britain in the far east," the Izvestia publishes what it says is the text of the secret treaty drawn up last year, providing for joint action by Russia and Japan to prevent any third country from achieving political dominance in China. The treaty, dated July 3, 1916, runs for five years, automatically extending itself until a year after one party expresses the desire to annul it. It is signed by Sergius Sazonoff, then Russian foreign minister, and Viscount Motono, Japanese foreign minister.

The treaty stipulates that "the agreement shall remain a deep secret for all except for the contracting parties." It opens with the statement that it is designed to supplement and strengthen the secret treaties of 1907, 1910 and 1912. Article I, it gives as follows: "The contracting parties recognize that the interests of either side demand the defense of China from political domination by any third power whatsoever cherishing hostile intentions toward Russia and Japan and therefore undertake whenever circumstances necessitate to open negotiations based on full confidence in order jointly to take the necessary steps to prevent the advent in China of such a state of affairs."

AMERICAN OFFICIALS HAVE NO KNOWLEDGE OF TREATY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Dec. 21.—American officials said today they had no knowledge of so-called secret treaty between Russia and Japan described in the Petrograd dispatches, but they considered that to describe it as contemplating "joint armed demonstrations against America and Great Britain in the far east" was not borne out by the text of the published articles.

There is a possibility that the treaty referred to is the special convention concluded between Russia and Japan at about the same time as the so-called secret treaty. It was generally assumed here that the treaty contained some secret provisions, but its purpose was described as being to safeguard the rights of Japan and Russia in the far east; to reconcile all outstanding issues between them, and generally to follow the lines of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

At the time it was supposed that the secret articles provided for the sale of Russia to Japan of all of the Manchurian railroads south of Harbin. The new treaty was supposed to have given the Japanese navigation rights in the Sugar river, and the extension of fishing rights off the coast of Siberia.

It is impossible that the United States government alone will make any effort to secure an explanation of the meaning and purpose of these secret articles from the principals, but it is rather expected that one or the other of them voluntarily will come forward with a statement in that line.

The agreement just concluded between Secretary Lansing and Viscount Ishii, thousandaire, specifically supplanting by military force, as is the Russo-Japanese secret treaty, really aimed at the same object, the protection of Chinese integrity and although that idea was developed on more altruistic and unselfish ground than in the secret convention.

PROPOSAL THAT QUEBEC SECEDE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Quebec, Dec. 21.—A proposal that the province of Quebec secede from the confederation of Canadian provinces was expressed in a motion introduced into the provincial legislative assembly today by J. N. Francoeur, deputy for Lotbiniere. Quebec is the only province which voted against conscription at the recent election.

The motion will be debated Jan. 8. It follows:

"That this house is of the opinion that the province of Quebec would be disposed to accept the rupture of the federation pact of 1867, in the opinion of the other provinces it is believed that the said province is an obstacle to the union and the progress and development of Canada."

SITUATION IN RUSSIA GROWS MORE CHAOTIC

Opposition to the Bolsheviki is Increasing Over the Country

CAUSED BY THE GERMAN SUPPORT OF MAXIMALISTS

Armies of the Allies Are Holding Their Own On
All Sectors

(Compiled from A. F. Dispatches)
Opposition to the Bolsheviks apparently is increasing as reports of German support of the Maximalist government become more pronounced and the situation in Russia grows more chaotic while the Bolsheviks endeavor to arrange a separate peace with the central powers. The Ukraine in its hostility to the Bolshevik government has been joined by the Russian staff on the southwestern front and General Stecherbatcheff, the commander in Rumania, has been appointed head of the Ukrainian forces, reported to be marching against the Bolsheviks. Another report reaching London says that the Rumanians have joined the Ukrainians, while other dispatches declare that former Premier Kerensky is marching against Moscow and that Grand Duke Nicholas is raising a royalist army in the Caucasus.

A German and Austrian officers released from Russian prisons are reported to have led the Bolsheviks in overpowering their opponents in Tashkent, the capital of Russian Turkestan, while other released enemy prisoners, said to be two army corps, are near Petrograd. Officers of the central powers are said to be active in Petrograd, although this is denied by the Bolsheviks, who claim that the constitutional democrats are trying to put Russia under German control.

Meanwhile diplomats of the central powers are hurrying to begin peace negotiations with the Bolsheviks. On leaving Berlin the German emissaries were urged by the populace to make "a strong peace."

Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain simultaneously with the publication of German peace offers declares that the allies must defeat militarism and that a league of nations, including the Prussian autonomy would be farce. The Teutons must restore territory and repay losses. Great Britain entered the war to vindicate her honor and not to make annexations. The British premier sees trying months ahead, but the anti-submarine campaign is becoming more effective and America's help will bring great results.

Apparently undaunted by the heavy forces the enemy has been using in attempting to break the Brenne River, the Italians are making counter attacks in an attempt to regain Monte Asolone. So far, Berlin says, they have been unsuccessful. On other sectors on this front the Italians have repulsed a heavy German attack north of Reillon, about eight miles south of the Rhine-Marne canal, where the Germans raided an American trench last month.

CAMP GROUND HOTEL BUILT AT LANCASTER BY A NEWARK FIRM

(Special to The Advocate.)
Lancaster, O., Dec. 21.—A fine new hotel has been erected on the camp ground at Lancaster. It contains 32 rooms besides lobby, offices, and rest parlors. It has bath rooms on two floors. The new hotel was built by Ryan and Steward, contractors of Newark, Ohio. The committee in charge of the enterprise is Wesley Montgomery of Newark, O. N. Danison of New Lexington, L. E. Eymann, F. E. Wilson and E. C. Howard of Lancaster.

The board of managers met at the camp ground on December 6 and with great enthusiasm, accepted the building from the contractors.

The date of the assembly and camp meeting, season of 1918, is August 1 to 17. A strong program is arranged by the superintendent of program, the Rev. C. E. Turley of Chillicothe.

ANNOUNCES KAISER HAS AUTHORIZED HIM TO CONCLUDE PEACE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Amsterdam, Dec. 21.—Count von Hertling, the imperial German chancellor, yesterday received representatives of all the reichstag parties with whom he had a confidential discussion on the situation caused by the opening of peace negotiations with Russia. The chancellor announced, according to a Berlin official dispatch, that the emperor had authorized him to conclude peace and he had charged Foreign Secretary von Kuhlmann to conduct the negotiations. The government's plans for future negotiations were reviewed by the chancellor and all the deputies are said to have approved the guiding lines laid down.

According to the newspapers the independent socialists were reported at the meeting by Deputy Haas. This is the first time since the "foundation of the party that it has had direct intercourse with the German government.

WILL EXHUME BODY OF MILLIONAIRE TO MAKE EXAMINATION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Toledo, Dec. 21.—When the body of Lucius Berdan, millionaire grocer, was removed today from a cemetery vault, it was frozen as hard as marble. The autopsy, for the purpose of ascertaining his sudden and mysterious death in Chicago, was postponed until the body can be thawed out by the use of steam pipes.

Attorney John E. Pratt, representing the widow, who has been missing since Berdan died, today told Coroner Hartung that he has her address and will furnish it to the coroner if he demands it. The coroner has not yet made such demand and will defer doing so until after the autopsy. He has ordered that the brain and all vital organs be removed for chemical analysis to ascertain if possible whether Berdan was poisoned.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Toledo, Dec. 21.—A postmortem examination of the body of Lucius Berdan, Toledo millionaire, who died in a Chicago hospital last week, will be made here today by Coroner Hartung.

Permission to hold the postmortem was given last night by C. T. Lewis, attorney representing the Berdan family, following a conference with Coroner Hartung. The body will be removed from a cemetery vault where it now lies and will be examined by the coroner and two expert chemists.

Consent was also given by Lewis to take the vital organs to Chicago for further examination if it is found necessary.

Marshall Shepper, brother-in-law and guardian of the late millionaire, readily gave his consent to the examination.

The widow the dead man has not yet been found but her attorney stated today that she was neither in Toledo, Chicago nor Cleveland, where it was reported she had gone.

TRANSPORTATION TO BE DISCUSSED IN WILSON'S MESSAGE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Until it has been received the President today requested that the senate interstate commerce committee withhold taking any investigation as provided under the Cummins resolution.

SHORTAGE IN CLOTHING IS INVESTIGATED

Inquiry Develops War Department Did Not Wait

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE MILITARY COMMITTEE

Quartermaster Gen. Sharpe Testifies Orders Placed Before Declaration of War

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Dec. 21.—Without waiting for congressional appropriations the war department authorized orders for clothing equipment for one million troops before the United States went to war, it was brought out today in the testimony of Quartermaster General Henry G. Sharpe before the senate military committee.

The committee investigating the supplying of troops, went particularly today in its causes for the shortage in clothing. Secretary Baker, General Sharpe said, authorized orders for clothing and other supplies for the million just before the war declaration and in June approved orders to equip another half million.

The only complaints of supply shortage received by the department has been in respect to clothing, General Sharpe said. In an introductory statement dealing with the Mexican border mobilization, General Sharpe said the ordnance equipment ordered with Secretary Baker's approval was the regulation thirty days' supply, including, clothing, hats, shoes, tentage and animals. This supply, he explained, was expected to last three months.

"In February," he said, "anticipating probable trouble, we ordered full equipment, at war strength, for the regular army of 160,000 men and late in March, when war seemed more imminent, the secretary authorized orders for equipment for 500,000 more men. Before war broke out I got authority for another 500,000 and in June for an additional 500,000."

These orders, he explained, were authorized made without funds and in anticipation of congressional appropriations.

Senator McKellar inquired whether the council of national defense had not in effect taken over virtually all work in connection with the placing of orders for clothing. General Sharpe replied that all contracts and prices were subject to the department's final approval and that the civilian board only had assisted in preliminary negotiations.

Investigation of the ordnance situation was completed yesterday and committee members hoped to get well under way with General Sharpe's testimony before adjournment today. The committee plans to wind up the ordnance hearing tomorrow with examination of Colonel Isaac Lewis, inventor of the Lewis machine gun.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN THE ABILITY OF GENERAL PERSHING

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Dec. 21.—Direct assurance of the confidence of both British and French commanders in General John J. Pershing's ability and their satisfaction with the breadth and soundness of his preparations to make American arms effective on the western front have reached Washington with the return from Europe of Major General Hugh L. FLYER CRASHES INTO A LOCAL AND 47 KILLED hinge upon whether the last train had been given a clear block or not. Jesse Weatherford, operator at the station, said immediately after the collision that after the local train pulled away from the station he had turned his board to show the truck clear for the fast train and then left his post in response to orders to help unload baggage.

As he left the office he said he saw the train approaching, rushed back to his office, set the red danger signal, picked up a red lantern and rushed to the platform to flag it. He reached the platform just as the train passed him, he said.
Superintendent Sheridan closely questioned the crews of both train as well as the station force, but declined to attempt to fix the blame, without further investigation.
Immediately after the crash passengers from the New Orleans train and Sherberville citizens rushed to the aid of those imprisoned beneath the wreckage of the local.
Several of those killed were so badly disfigured that it was impossible to identify them last night.
Two children, whose identity had not been determined early today, were found in snowdrifts into which they had been thrown, and were cared for last night by Sherberville citizens.
One, a girl of about 11 years of age, was apparently unhurt, but had suffered such a violent shock as to lose her memory, at least temporarily. The other child, a little girl about four years old, was asleep when picked from the snowdrift into which she had been pitched by the impact of the collision. Her rescuers decided not to awaken her, after it was found she was unhurt, and the child slept the night through.
Many of the injured were so badly hurt that it is feared the death list will be increased even further.

THE L. & N. FLYER
First Sergeant and Mrs. Lee Moore of this city, were on the Louisville & Nashville flyer, which crashed into the accommodation train. Sergeant Moore and wife had been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. E. E. Moore, North Fourth street and left Newark yesterday morning at 9 o'clock expecting to stop in Cincinnati until the fast train left for the south, being on his way to join his company in the field artillery at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala. As none of the passengers of the fast train was either killed or injured, Sergeant Moore and wife escaped unhurt, if they were on the train, as they had planned to be.

CONSCRIPTION IS DEFEATED BADLY IN AUSTRALIA

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Sydney, Australia, Dec. 20.—(Delayed).—Unless the soldier vote on the various fronts, which has not yet been counted, offset the vote in Australia, the government's conscription bill, which has been defeated in a referendum by a majority of 115,000. This is believed to be hardly likely however, on account of the heavy vote against conscription in New South Wales, which gave a majority of 115,000 against the proposal. Those favorable to conscription were surprised by the result in Victoria which reversed last year's favorable vote by giving a majority of 1,500 against conscription this year.

CLAIM GERMANS HAVE REJECTED RUSSIAN TERMS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Dec. 21.—It is reported unofficially that the Germans have rejected the Russian peace terms, the Petrograd correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company wires under date of Thursday.

Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, with an important staff of officials left Berlin yesterday for Brest-Litovsk amid scenes of enthusiasm, the crowd singing the national anthem and raising shouts of "bring us a strong peace."

It is said that the peace negotiations will be under the presidency of Ibrahim Hakki Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to Berlin and dean of the Berlin diplomatic corps. The Bulgarian delegates include Minister of Justice Popoff and M. Kosseff, chief of the foreign office.

While the peace delegates are assembling, the activity at Petrograd of a number of German and Austrian officers apparently is causing heart burnings. Circulars have been spread alleging that the council of soldiers and workmen's delegates is in negotiations with the officers. The Pravda, the Bolshevik organ, prints an unqualified denial and makes a counter charge against the constitutional democrats, claiming that they are trying to undermine Trotsky and Lenin.

FIGHTING IN MANY PARTS OF PETROGRAD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Petrograd, Thursday, Dec. 20.—Incessant fighting has occurred in many parts of Petrograd in connection with the efforts to check drunkenness and prevent the raiding of wine cellars. A mob raided one distillery where fifteen soldiers drank themselves to death. Fifteen persons were killed and wounded when an armored car attacked the distillery, which was set on fire.

The guard will tour the city in automobile today searching for the absentees still at large.
Twenty-two men have been arrested by local police and are locked in the county jail.

Today's Car of Utility and Economy

Do You Need 200 Miles On a Battery Charge

If the electric-powered automobile could run 200 miles on a single charge of the battery we know that practically all enclosed buyers would purchase the electric automobiles.

But we believe that the 80 to 100 miles the Detroit Electric does give on a single battery charge is more than you really want or have need for in any one day's use.

Are we right or are you? What are the facts?

Just take the last four months—the finest days of the year for motoring.

How many days did you actually drive your car more than 60 miles? Be fair to yourself. Don't guess but take the speedometer readings.

We venture that you will be surprised to find that most of the days you did not drive even 40 miles.

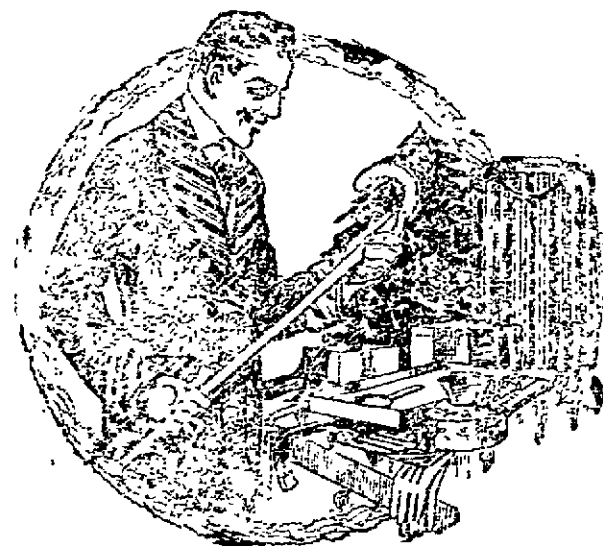

Yet you may be depriving yourself of all the advantages of a Detroit Electric simply because of this opinion that you need 200 miles on a battery charge.

Whereas the facts of the case are that you actually need from 40 to 60 miles and the Detroit Electric gives you 80 to 100.

We would like to show you personally what a wonderful automobile the Detroit Electric really is.

ALADDIN ALUMINUM Makes Ideal Christmas Gifts

"Merry Christmas" rings joyously in our ears on only one day in all the year. The gifts which we give and which we receive are tokens which remain throughout the year—and each year finds us giving gifts with more practical value.

This year we know of no other gift with more practical value than Aladdin Aluminum. What housewife would not care for these beautiful and conveniently made Aladdin Cooking Utensils. Contrast Aladdin's finish inside and out, with all others—it is just like silver and you can keep it so.

Buying the best food cheaply isn't the only way to practice economy in the kitchen. The right utensil is just as important as the right roast. You don't buy kettles every day as you do roasts—the kettle has to last a generation. That's why we recommend Aladdin Aluminum.

To help introduce Aladdin utensils to you, we have arranged with the Aladdin factory to sell a limited number of the popular Aladdin Double Boilers. Aladdin double boilers save heat and fuel. They have an extra large water capacity—less danger of boiling dry. Look at the round handles that fit the hand. Notice how close they are together—lift it all with one hand. These double boilers sold regularly at $2.40.

ALL PLANS COMPLETED FOR THE COMMUNITY XMAS CELEBRATION

The final plans were completed for Newark's Community Christmas for 1917 at a meeting of the committee in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday afternoon. Reports were received from the various sub-committees showing that everything was practically in readiness for the services which are to begin at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the south side of the public square.

The Buckeye band has very kindly agreed to furnish its services gratis and will lead all of the chorus singing. A request is being made of the pastors of the various churches to make announcement of the service from their pulpits on Sunday, also that those who care to take part in the chorus will meet at the Newark Trust Building at 3:45 sharp. Prof. Klopp will lead the singing.

The Community Christmas Tree will be lighted through the courtesy of the Ohio Light and Power company, the Newark Electric company, and members of the fire department who will look after the decorating of the tree.

In case of extremely bad weather, the doors of the court house will be thrown open and the services will take place inside of the building. Dr. D. D. Tullis of the Second Presbyterian church will give a ten-minute address and Rev. C. H. Small will have the prayer. The program will include the singing of "America," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," and a cornet solo, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Holy Night," and "Star Spangled Banner."

The services will probably not last more than three-quarters of an hour and every citizen of Newark is invited to attend.

DRYS WANT OHIO TO BE FIRST STATE.
Columbus, Dec. 21.—Ohio dry leaders are ambitious to make this state the first in the country to ratify the federal prohibition amendment. To this end they will begin immediately a canvass of members of the general assembly, to see whether ratification here would be possible if a special session is called in 1918. The house admittedly is dry now. The senate, however, has been regarded decidedly wet. According to J. A. White, head of the Anti-Saloon League, a majority of the senatorial districts voted dry at the November election, and this leads him to believe that some of the supposedly wet senators may have switched over to the other side.

Can Desperate Germany Break Through?

Germany's profest contempt for America's war preparations is somewhat belied by evidences of her desperate determination to win before our soldiers arrive in force. Thus dispatches tell of westward-moving German troop-trains congesting the roads to Flanders, of Austrian forces shifted to the French front, and of a growing intensity of Teutonic artillery-fire along the whole Western line. Advices that leak out from Germany all indicate that the Kaiser's only hope of victory lies in delivering a "knock-out" blow, before American forces can get into the field.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for December 22d, one of the leading articles deals with the possibilities in the German drive on the Western front, and how it may affect the Allies chances of victory. Other features are:

SCHOOL CO-OPERATION.

Some people complain that the public schools are remote from daily life. To bring the young folks into a closer connection with civic interests, many cities are setting them to definite tasks. In some places, if a schoolhouse needs painting, the boys will be set to work with brush and paint-pot. Some schools have articles and furniture made by their manual training pupils.

A notable instance of such school co-operation was recently reported from the Rockford, Ill., high school. The town suffered greatly the past season from an attack of the tussock moth. It seemed likely that the shade trees, the pride of the city, would be seriously hurt. To hire them cleaned up by professional foresters would be costly.

So it was put up to the high school. On a given day the fire alarm was blown and the young people went out after moth-eaten clusters. The city had been divided into districts, with a group for each district. An enormous quantity of egg-clusters were destroyed. One girl got 90 of them off one house. Inspection later showed that there were but few of the eggs left.

Now this accomplished a lot more than saving money for the city, or even saving the trees. It set those young people to thinking about protecting public property, and conserving its beauty. It made them realize that to maintain a modern town everyone must co-operate.

Hereafter those young folks will look on those trees with a feeling of more interest and responsibility. They will be observant to see how the foliage is faring. Young people take hold of these civic tasks very willingly. There are many lines of public work which they could take hold of in Newark. The energetic way in which the Newark boys and girls tackled the Red Cross membership campaign on December 18, and the success they achieved, shows that they are fitted to do a good deal of civic work.

WORLD'S FOOD SHORTAGE.

Many people believe that the idea of food shortage is largely imaginary. They think it is promoted by food speculators, middlemen and trusts, to excuse and to conceal their exorbitant prices. A most deplorable selfishness and lack of patriotism has been shown among these elements, which are constantly enriching themselves while poor people go hungry, and the government's war-work is hampered.

But when you look at the cold figures of production and consumption, increase of population, and stationary or declining supplies, it is impossible to deny that a scarcity exists. While attempting to curb the speculators, we must not forget the law of supply and demand, and make every effort to increase supply.

It is not sufficient that there should be barely enough food to supply the people. There needs at all times to be an ample margin, else the speculators can corner the market and force the public to pay extortionate prices.

Much could be done by better systems of marketing. Storage plants are needed in country districts and cities, better terminal facilities, sidetracks, and convenient means of unloading and loading, systems of motor trucks for collection and delivery. Such systems cost a great deal of money. With the world shortage of capital, it is not clear where these funds are to come from.

Many people believe the farmer is setting rich at present prices. Yet when he has paid twice as much as formerly for labor and machinery, and three times as much for seed, his profit seems to be largely on paper. The highly-developed farm should make money. But there are millions of little fellows that are still struggling along. We need more food-producers. Young men of foresight are responding to the opportunity, but they can't expect any bonanza under present conditions.

NEWARK AND UTICA.

The road between Newark and Utica, which is the largest town in Licking county outside of the county seat, has been in an almost impassable condition recently. This has caused great inconvenience to the people in the northern section of the county and has no doubt been a distinct loss to Newark. What will be done about it? How soon will we have as good a road between Newark and Utica as we have from Newark to Granville, Alexandria and Johnston, to Jacksonville and Gratiot and Hebron, to Hanover and to Linville? Read what this week's Utica Herald has to say on the subject:

The conditions on the Utica-Newark road last week were unprecedented. The present generation cannot recall the road being blocked with snow so many days. On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wilson, returning from Columbus in their car, got stuck one mile this side of Newark and had to call for help from the city to get the car out and back to a garage—the Wilsons coming home by train. Charles Latham, in one of the Bell taxi-fords, got beyond his depth and had to leave the car in the drift until he secured help from Utica. By shoveling, the Ford was released and it made the trip to Utica in four hours. Wednesday noon, Frank Hulshizer started for Newark to get a repair part for the mill engine. He got a little ways past Willard Smoots' when he encountered a drift which stalled his machine. He was unable to move forward, but by shoveling he got the car back home. There were other similar cases. On Saturday, one man drove from St. Louisville to Newark in two hours.

FOOLING THE HENS.

A writer in Farm and Fireside tells of a seventeen-year-old boy who is making good profits from hens. The youth says, in explaining how he makes his hens work overtime: "Every afternoon at 4:30, when Biddy began to chant 'The Shades of Night Are Falling Fast' and prepared to turn in, I put one over on her by lighting a couple of those 'daylight' style of gasoline lanterns. The hens started like a charm. The hens started to peck at the light. At 5:30 a. m. I lighted them again and back they came to the floor litter, scratching away for dear life. I kept the lantern burning in the morning till 8 a. m. Some of my neighbors prophesied dire calamity—said my hens were bound to die, being forced to go contrary to nature like that, but so far have not lost any to speak of, and I believe it's only a question of time before the use of artificial light, during the short winter days, to make hens lay will become a general practice.

"Young Goelzer didn't have just what he wanted to breed from last spring, so he bought 1,000 day-old chicks, but he is now trap-nesting and weeding out the inefficient, and next spring he expects to hatch his own chicks.

"Yes, I've done very well for a beginner, the experts tell me. Roy admitted modestly. 'I've got a lay-out here that cost between $200 and $400, and 240 hens and as many more pullets, worth $1.50 apiece.'

AFTER THE WAR.

(Ohio State Journal.)
In a recent address, Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau at Washington, said something very interesting about the situation after the present war, as follows:

The soldiers' orphan asylum and the soldiers' home will not reappear after this war. If the spirit of the government's measures is carried out, the law offers a distinct scheme under which, if death results, the family shall have at least a modest income with which to face the world, known in advance and ready when needed.

This will all come about because of the soldiers' pay, his allowance, etc., which will amount to $47.50 a month and which will keep the old soldier and his offspring out of the public institutions of charity and give to him an independence and self-reliance that public cash cannot do. It will preserve those family associations which are so dear to the man who has suffered in war. Added to this pay and allowance will be the insurance, which is being so extensively taken in the army.

OUR MEN AT THE FRONT.

(Philadelphia Record.)

The letter addressed to our Government by the President of the Swiss Confederation, thanking it for its promise to observe strictly the neutrality of Switzerland and at the same time announcing the country's intention to resist with all its power any invasion of its territory, is of interest principally because it suggests that American troops are now stationed near the Swiss border. Otherwise such a declaration from the Swiss Confederation would hardly be called for. The probability of this proximity of our troops is further strengthened by the statement of the Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, that "large numbers of American troops were assembled at the Swiss border." Of course, full reliance cannot be placed on the assertions of German newspapers, especially regarding anything American; but sometimes they are right. Particularly interesting is the reference to the "large numbers" of the American troops.

The reports of the first brush between our soldiers and the Germans showed that the former at that time held a portion of the French front in the vicinity of the Marne-Rhine Canal, not far from Nancy. This part of the line was marked by furious fighting, in which the Germans were defeated, during the first six weeks of the war. Since then it has been what the official communiqué described as "a quiet sector." If our troops are now also holding that portion of the line southeast of Belfort, where France, Germany and Switzerland touch one another, it is not an operation of General Pershing's men is gradually being extended and that they are constantly taking over more and more of the eastern front. This would be only natural, of course, as their training proceeds and they become better acquainted with the work in hand. It is to be hoped that the German newspaper was right in its reference to the "large numbers" of American troops. Our army over there, while still small in comparison with those of the other belligerents, must be rapidly approaching a size where it can make its strength felt.

Be Wary.

Four thieves pretending to be United States secret service officers searching for a German spy gained access to a department store building in Cleveland, O. They bound and gagged three watchmen who were in charge of the building. Then they blew open the safe obtained $10,000 in cash and $10,000 worth of jewelry and furs and departed. If one or two gentlemen knock at your door after midnight and ask to be admitted, saying they are secret service officers looking for a German spy, invite them to continue their looking for him on the outside, and if they threaten to break open the door or window, tell them that you have an automatic and will take a hot shot at them from the window. —Los Angeles Times.

Where Is Zimmermann.

Hindenburg is confident we can't get a big army to France and that if we could we wouldn't because we are afraid of Japan. Maybe Hindenburg has inside information on that point. Maybe he is in the confidence of Zimmermann, who got up that little scheme to have Japan and Mexico come over and apportion out the real estate of Uncle Sam. Maybe he knows the whereabouts of Zimmermann himself, who has completely disappeared from the eye of the world. Maybe he knows that Zim is at this moment either in Mexico or Japan preparing to pull off that coup d'etat person. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Center of Reaction.

The Austrian domination of the house of Hapsburg is all that is left of that "Holy Roman empire" of which it is said, in the last days of its shattered pretensions that it was neither Holy nor Roman nor an empire. For a thousand years more or less Austria has been the dead-center of political reaction in Europe. Even the French Revolution did not seriously shake Vienna's alliance with absolutism. Metternich continued to serve autocracy, and the late Francis Joseph safe-guarded it so long as he could without placing his crown in peril. —Springfield Republican.

Operation Necessary.
Aunt Callie says:—One day last week Hadda Boyle was taken off suddenly with this here apoplexy an' as luck would have it, Doc Carven was jest a-driving 'p a t. i.' with his little boy into the buggy with him. So they hailed Doc an' he come in in a hurry. He saw they had to operate on poor Hadda at once to save her life so he telephoned Doc Kilborn to go by the office an' come quick as he could with his sack o' instruments. They told Willie, which is Doc's boy, to set in a cheer in the haul, but Willie soon crope in an' whilst Doc was most offit bizz nakin' a operatin for Lissell, Willie he says, 'Dag, I think it would be better if you cut her down a little bit furder,' he says.

Old Winter has us in his grip. I'm longing for the summer. When the warm ice on which to slip. Nor yet bills from the plumber.

Lives on Church Street.
First thing you know, Mr. Spencer will send a message to all of us.—"This thing if you can't tree, as good children ought. You can pack up your fusses and get out of the Pot. I'll say I am sorry; I hope you repent of getting so huffy when kindness was another thing—I'm a sick lady, you see. And the orders were, 'Don't let a thing worry ME.' But when I read yours, 'this ought to hold ME. I was just as excited as I could be. If you think for a minute I'm squealed, Willie G. You are sad. Mistaken, it isn't in ME to be squealed by none, least of all a mere man. To prove it, I'm sending as fast as I may reply to your ranting and raving; why, G. If you're any more, I'll think you're 'frail o' ME. Boss you may be of this sheet, it is true, but the same, Mr. Spencer, I'll bet, bosses you! I know he's a man of such good common sense. That he never once thought of taking offense. Because in my verse I addressed him. Though his hair is of silver, his heart is of gold. I'm just as right as I live on Church Street, Mr. Spencer. If Willie the Boss, then who is the censor? He failed to get his verses by? Let ME know. As Boss it occurs to me he's a bit slow. I'm just as right as I'm trying to run Willie G. My time is all taken up running just ME. You surely are sore! I'll say all the same, I'm not 'frail of you or of telling my It's not for the public a bit more than yours. As the Advocate always protection as. So just loose your grouch and come down off your perch. For I am a lady and I live on Church Street. You seem to like mine and print all that I send. For which I do thank you; and if it will mend Your feelings about it, why then, Willie G., Old Santa will bring you a present from ME. And, to just call your bluff, I will agree Next time I see Mr. S. I'll say, 'Meet ME. But I'll tell him, 'Now this is a secret you've got. So can't tell a soul but the bunch in the Pot. ME.

Kaiser Bill.
Mein Gott, will you tell mein partner? You don't know who I am? I am the German Kaiser. You know, I whipped the Belgians. Und mit bullets filled Russia full; Und I'll whip France und Italy. We'll whip dot Uncle Sam. For all dem other nations I do not give a damn. You'll just see me partner. We'll whip dot Uncle Sam. You know I got dem submarines. All Europe knows dot well. Und I'll whip dot Uncle Sam. Now, Gott, if you will do this. You and I will always be friends. Und I'll be emperor of the earth. You, emperor up above. But Gott, if you refuse me this, I wouldn't ask this of you. But it plainly can be seen. When Edison pushes dot button I got no submarine. That Other Me.

Say, F. B. E., my advice to you is "don't try to tell me what to do." This "ME" person started to gettin' rough. And I have merely called her bluff. You see, the issue we can't "Dodge." If on New Year's "ME" and I are sore, What's the diff? We've often been before. If we succeed in staying miffed, I won't have to buy her a Christmas gift. If you think I can't back up what I say why, you just tell a-gettin' gay. You can't afford to play peace-maker, Or you will need an undertaker. Willie Getit.

The Kaiser's Dream.

There's a rumor now current, though strange it may seem Of the German Emperor's wonderful dream: Being tired of war, he lay down in bed. And "mongst other things, dreamt that he was dead. And in a deep coffin, lying in state, With his cold, waxen features frozen with hate, He wasn't long dead when he found to his cost. That a map of the next world and passports were lost. So, leaving this earth to Heaven went straight. Jauntily strutting right up to the gate, But the lookout angel in voice strong and clear. Said, "You Kaiser W., we don't want you here. Well, thought Wilhelm, that's very un-civil. Does he mean I must go straight to the Devil? So he turned on his heel, and off he did go. Running full speed to the regions below. But when he got there he was filled with grief and gloom. For whilst waiting outside, he heard Satan say, "now look here, boys, I give you all my warning. I'm expecting the Kaiser down here this morning. But don't let him in, for to me it is clear. We're far too good for the mongrel he pays. If he gets in, there'll be the Dickens to pay. For, had as I am, he's much worse any day. "Oh, Satan, dear friend," the Emperor cried: "Excuse me for listening, whilst waiting outside; If you don't let me in, then where can I go? "Indeed," said the Devil, "I really don't know." "Oh, do let me in, I'm feeling quite hot. If money you want, I've plenty of gold. Just give me a corner, no matter how hot." "No," said the Devil, "most certainly not. We don't let apartments for riches or poor. Here's some sulphur and matches, make a hell with 'em, and get in. Then he kicked Wilhelm out, and vanished in smoke. And just at that moment the Kaiser awoke. He jumped out of bed in a shivering sweat. And cried, "Gott, that dream I shall never forget! That I won't go to Heaven, I know very well. But it's awful tough luck to be kicked out of hell."

Come to our store, forget you are in a store, turn your back, close your eyes, and when Margaret Matzenauer's glorious voice, literally re-created, tone for tone, shade for shade, pours forth from the New Edison, you will feel her very presence in the room.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph With a Soul"

Half a million people have heard these astounding tests and were positively unable to tell apart the singer's living voice and the new instrument's Re-Creation of it. These remarkable tests are chronicled in five hundred of America's principal newspapers.

NOTICE—Please do not ask us to sell you Edison Re-Creations if you intend to attempt to play them on any other instrument than the New Edison. No other instrument can bring out the true musical quality of Edison Re-Creations. DOG COLLECTED MONEY FOR ITS LICENSE TAG

Nearly every one in the center of the city has observed at times a little black dog going around on three legs, and who is known as "Chum", and who makes his home in the rear of 19 South Fourth street. When he was a puppy six weeks old he was run over by an automobile, and a veterinary amputated the puppy's right front leg close to the shoulder. Chum must have been told that if he wanted to remain on earth instead of being sent to dogland he would have to procure a license tag. He found it out somehow or other and started out on a mission of his own. We went into the Franklin bank with a note in a cup attached to his collar and after visiting various friends visited Auditor Fred S. Wilson at the court house and after a few barks and a rattle of his dimes and nickels made that official understand that he wanted a license, which gave him the privilege of living another year longer. Now Chum is a happy little cur and the envy of his dog companions. He makes daily trips to the grocery, barks for a bone, but will not accept it unless it is wrapped in paper. He will then take it home and enjoy a quiet feed. He has a bail and enjoys playing catch. He can perform numerous tricks and is always willing to do them for his friends, all of whom will be glad to know that Chum is the proud possessor of a license tag, has plenty to eat and a warm place to sleep.

Appeal for Charity.
Editor Advocate:—I have read the "Hill of Opportunities" for furnishing relief as published by the Associated Charities in your issue of yesterday with no small interest. And I know a number of other cases that are very similar. O ye men and women, whose storehouse is never empty, and whose basket is always full to overflowing, what a means of grace is here offered to you, and what a doorway to the Kingdom of Heaven is presented to your eyes! Surely we ought not to neglect the Red Cross work that is within our own gates, lest the Lord see it, and it displease Him.—M. R. Scott.

SHORTAGE OF COAL; ALL LECTURES DISCONTINUED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Dec. 21.—On account of the shortage of coal in New York's public schools it was announced today that all public lectures in school buildings where the use of additional heat for auditoriums is required, will be discontinued. The coal supply for the city was short 40,000 tons yesterday. The normal needs are about 60,000 tons a day, but only 20,000 tons were received. Thousands of tons of coal have arrived at New Jersey terminals, it is said, but difficulties in distribution have been encountered. Needed Ventilation.

"FALL OF BABYLON" BIBLE LECTURE ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Is to be another famous Bible Lecture, and is to be held in the convention room of the court house next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Like the address given by W. H. Spring last Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. it will foretell the future, and the well known fact of the destruction of literal City of Babylon, is a type of the Fall of "Mystic" Babylon, an important future event to the Christian, real or professed, whatever the walk in this life. We all have so many guesses coming all the time, that it is surely well worth our while to thoroughly investigate what the Scripture says on these subjects, for it is always to be relied upon. There is to be a wonderful change in the ecclesiastical heavens in the very near future, and this battle is of much more importance than any we have had in earth since the Great World War began. C. P. Stotter of Crooksville will deliver his great lecture on "The Fall of Babylon" at the Convention room of the Court House and as it is not very large those especially interested would better come early to secure a seat. Those in attendance at the lecture last Sunday spoke very highly of it, and this by Mr. Stotter will be quite as important, scriptural and interesting to all, and more especially to members of the several church denominations, and as Christians you cannot well afford to loose, for the hand writing is just as plain today and the fall of Mystic, Ecclesiastical Babylon just as sure as was the hand writing, and the fall of literal Babylon of old. Daniel 5:25.

GOVERNMENT SHIPMENTS AHEAD OF XMAS GIFTS

Don't get vexed if your Christmas present sent by express is a little late. It will eventually reach you. Along with the holiday rush, there has been a very heavy demand on the express companies for the hurried handling of government shipments which have a priority privilege. This government business has everything to do with the proper maintenance of the various military camps, and packages for soldiers get first attention. There is also a shortage of sufficient cars to handle the big holiday business. Many extra men are helping handle the business of the express companies, but even with all this help, it is probable that there will be considerable delay in the delivery of packages during the next ten days and probably longer.

WHY HE REFUSED TO BE KING

Bewhiskered gentlemen with long knives and spluttering bombs, disloyal servants, who attempt to poison his food, and villainous spies, who try to assassinate him, hold no particular errors for Douglas Fairbanks in his new picture for Artcraft, "Reaching for the Moon." But when the few friends he has at court try to marry him off to the princess whose classic features are presented in the above he returns to his original job at the button factory "Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown," quotes Douglas in this picture, whereupon we second the motion.

IRSLINGER DOWNS LOCAL FAVORITE IN GREAT EXHIBITION

Wrestling fans at the Auditorium last night witnessed one of the best exhibitions ever taking place in this city, when Henry Irslinger of Atlantic City threw Paul Bowser of this city in exactly two hours and twenty-two minutes time.

The match was originally made to have been for the middle-weight championship, which means that both the contestants would have to make 158 pounds at the ring-side. This was found impossible and after the two men got together on new terms it was agreed to make the match a time limit affair of two hours and a half.

A good crowd was present and enjoyed the opener or curtain raiser, a fifteen minute go between Ralph Lane and Harvey Smith of this city. It was more than interesting and highly enjoyed by everyone for the boys went after one another from the minute Referee Herbert Webber gave them the word until time was called. Neither boy secured a fall, but both demonstrated that they know the game.

The second match was between Clarence Keck of this city and Jimmie McTeague of Columbus. The boys weighed 115 pounds and put up a never-ending and creditable exhibition. Keck downing his man in 13 minutes and 45 seconds.

The semi-final was to have been a six-minute affair between Leslie Fishbaugh of this city, weighing 120 pounds, and John Tallman of Columbus, weighing 127. Just before going on the stage both boys agreed to a ten minute conclusion. Fishbaugh was much the cleverest lad and at the end of six minutes his opponent gave up and lost the match.

Then came the main bout and both Bowser and Irslinger demonstrated that they know every trick of the game. Both men could stand wonderful punishment in the toe hold and neither secured any advantage through the same except to cause a break of holds. After two hours and twenty-two minutes of wrestling Irslinger threw Bowser off his head and stunning him. He got up only to stagger onto the mat, still dizzy from the fall. Irslinger saw his advantage and was on him with the quickness of a cat and in a trice had Bowser's shoulders pinned to the mat, winning the fall. The two men, after a ten minute intermission, went at it again and Bowser worked hard for a fall. He had Irslinger in several tight pinches and the men gave some of the prettiest exhibitions of the game that could be possible, but the visitor was too wary and at the end of the eight minutes the time limit was up and the match was over.

Both men made curtain speeches. Irslinger stating that he found Bowser a tough proposition, but that he would give him a return match, but reserved the right to name his own terms. Bowser said he found his opponent a good, clean wrestler and had no complaint to make. He hoped to give a better account of himself if he ever met Irslinger again.

The next match has been set for January 10, but Bowser has not yet signed any one for the same, but expects to complete arrangements within a day or two. John Klonis wants to meet Bowser and the fans would fill the house to see the rough house Greek mix it up with Bowser once again.

Bowser wrestles Demetral at Columbus tonight and will have a hard battle as the latter outweighs Bowser thirty pounds and will be much fresher than the Newark man. Bowser though promises to give a good account of himself.

In preparation for the coming in large numbers of American troops to the French war zone, the American Red Cross has established twenty dispensaries for resident civilians. This is to improve general health conditions before arrival of thousands of Americans from the cantonments.

A LUCKY YOUNGSTER

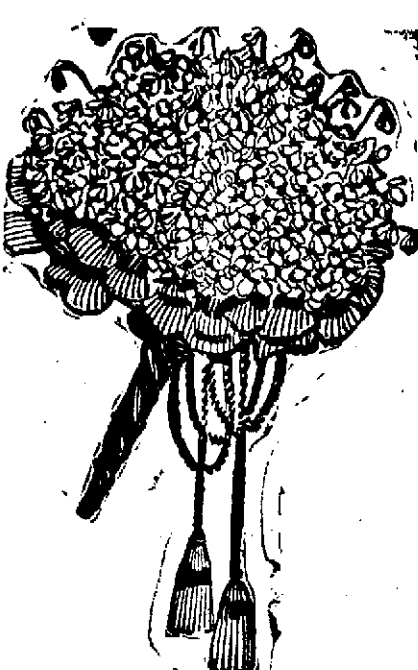

Many youngsters throughout the country will envy Harold Goodwin, a Los Angeles boy, and little wonder. Harold, until recently, lived the life of the ordinary schoolboy when suddenly he was lifted from things commonplace into a new world. For several years he has been an ardent admirer of William S. Hart, the famous delineator of Western parts on the screen. Through a coincidence he realized the ambition of his life when he was given a small part in Hart's new Ince-Artcraft picture "The Silent Man." On seeing the youngster's work before the camera the popular star immediately became enthusiastic over his exceptional talents, and now Harold Goodwin is the protégé of "Big Bill," who expects to make a great star out of the youth.

Defeat Backache and Kidney Trouble With Anuric

Many Ohio people have suffered from rheumatism and kidney trouble and have found that Anuric was the most successful remedy to overcome that painful and dangerous ailment.

The lucky people are those who have suffered, but who are now well, because they heeded nature's warning signal in time to correct their trouble with that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called "Anuric." You should promptly heed these warnings, some of which are dizziness, backache, irregularity of the urine or the painful twinges of rheumatism, sciatica or lumbago. To delay may make possible the dangerous forms of kidney disease, such as Bright's disease, diabetes or stone in the bladder.

To overcome these distressing conditions you should take plenty of exercise in the open air, avoid a heavy meat diet, drink freely of water and at each meal take Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets (double strength). You will, in a short time, find that you are one of the firm indorsees of Anuric, as are thousands of your neighbors.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—When I commenced to take Anuric, about two months ago, I was so crippled with rheumatism that I couldn't get around. The kidney excretion was high color and quite painful. The first week I persisted in the treatment even though I felt a little worse, but I noticed that the water changed at once, and I had sense enough to know that the medicine was working right. Then my entire system seemed to be miraculously relieved of the uric acid. I felt better than for years; the rheumatic condition and rheumatism entirely disappeared and I was able to work same as when I was young. It seems almost beyond belief that so inexpensive a medicine could cure the rheumatic pain that had been troubling me for more than five years. I will be glad if through this someone will try Anuric and obtain relief.—Mrs. DANIEL BAUGHMAN, 3017 E. 72nd Street.

PARISIANS PLACE BUSTLE IN FRONT

No Woman Designer Had Anything to Do With Creation of New Feature.

STYLE ACCEPTED BY PUBLIC

There Seems to Be Not the Slightest Idea of a Return to Fullness in Either Frocks or Coats.

New York.—France puts a bustle in front of a gown, and America puts it in the back. Such is the interesting struggle going on between designers.

Two men, one of this continent and one of that, were responsible for the 1917 bustle, and it may be confidently asserted that no woman designer had a part in its creation or development. It took the public just six weeks to level the fashion to the commonplace. It is because of this public acceptance that the style must be dealt with generously by the reporters.

Suit of green velvet and cashmere, with jacket that has the upward tilt at the back and is finished with a high-waisted belt. Waistcoat of bottle-green suede. The gown was made for a descendant of the famous Annie Laurie.

of fashion who usually can give only passing attention to each new idea as it is shot across the battlefield of apparel. One man's idea attracts attention, but that attention is deflected by every other man's idea, but when this individual idea is multiplied a thousand times by buyers and sellers, by women who pretend to be fashionable and by those who care nothing about the word, then the fashion becomes "the style," as we term it in this country.

If you talk earnestly with those who deal in exclusive clothes, you will hear them say that the silhouette must change and that it is more than probable that the bustle will become more of a feature in the spring among high-class designers than it is today.

There is no disposition on the part of the American woman to save in the buying of clothes despite all the propaganda on this subject, and no matter what comes later, if the war continues, the process of buying goes on merrily today.

No Return to Fullness.
There is not the slightest idea of a return to fullness in frocks or coats. There are two good reasons for this announcement—a scarcity of material in certain quarters and the wish of the various governments of the world for strict conservation, and also the fact that we have been over-surfitted with fullness in clothes and the very sight of such a gown gives us a squeamish attack of sartorial indigestion. It is almost unbearable today to look upon a looped, panniered, befrilled or beflowered costume. We were hooped, even though they were disguised under the name of the farthingale, until we felt ashamed to look at a barrel, and it is not possible for either the French or the American designers to compel us to turn our attention to such clothes in the immediate future.

We want slimmest, we look our very best in slimmest, and we are quite willing to wear less material than since the Civil war, but we are tired of tunics. Our trouble is that we don't want a return to the small waist, we will not have more material put into our clothes and we insist upon a straight line from armpole to hips, but something must be done with our skirts if our palate for clothes is to be tickled any further.

Under the influence of this impatience and annoyance with a continuity of line in clothes, there is no reason why something approaching the tie-back skirt and the bustle of 1870-80 should not appear quite gradually over the horizon for the better class of clothes.

Nothing More Than Soft Drapery.

You know by this time, of course, that the bustle is nothing more than a hideous word for a bit of soft drapery arranged to break the tight and often inartistic line across the figure at the end of the spine. This drapery is the saving grace on certain types of broad, stout figures. It may be almost impossible to believe that among this race of flat-hipped, long-limbed, slim-chested, big-waisted American women, which the last ten years have produced, there are still women, and many of them, who have what is called the ancient figure. Of course, it is not the ancient figure at all, for that is the new figure to which all modernists aspire, but what the dressmakers mean by the phrase is the 1880 figure, which has never been controlled or suppressed or even treated with contempt by a certain segment of American women. Chests out, stomachs in, hips rounded and waists tightened is the artificial figure that was stamped upon three generations of American women and has not entirely died out.

There are other women who have long since forgotten that they ever had a waist, but they cannot submerge the flesh around their hips and back and they look their worst in chemise, tunic and sandwich gowns. Therefore, the bustle drapery is for them. If the dressmakers can handle it in a manner that suggests novelty and achieves artistic results, we shall probably see it in the foremost fashions.

Now as to the French bustle—it was copied from the Directoire period and taken, like all the Directoire clothes, from the fashions of a century before. Napoleon aspired to control of France. It merely transpired the drapery as the Americans use it, from the back to the front.

Bullock is the apostle of this bustle. If you can call the drapery in front by that name. Bullock, through his color schemes and his daring, has assumed something of the widespread authority in clothes that Paul Poiret held, undisputed, until he went to war. Bullock dips his hands deep into history, pulls out anything his fingers can grasp and puts all that he finds into the most modern of clothes. Two years ago his efforts were not taken seriously in this country; today, all the designers over here who wish to cater to an exclusive patronage, buy freely of Bullock.

The hallmark of his work this season is that drapery across the front of the figure below the waist. It is deftly done. This drapery really sinks into the surface of the skirt and drips down into the cascades that run below the knees at each side.

Uplifted Line in Skirt.

The entire dressmaking world of Paris was a bit touched with this fashion. When you look at all the new gowns that smart women appear in, and when you gaze at the shop windows to try to choose the frock you would like to wear, you may notice that a common thread of idea runs through them all in this uplifted line in the front of the skirt.

This trick, as you remember, is not new to the twentieth century. It belongs to the days out of which Goethe created Faust. Throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, there was a disposition to drag the clothes up in the front and tie them in loops and drapery below the waistline by running a cord under the fullness.

It looks as though a revival of this fashion were upon us. The skirts are dragged up so definitely in front either by the cut of the hem or by the placement of the lace or fur, that we have become accustomed to watching for that upward tilt in every new frock that appears. The house of Callot has always tilted the movement of her skirt at its hem upward in the middle of the back or the middle of the front, but this is a different type of fashion and it is taken from more primitive days.

This ermine cape was designed for afternoon wear. It is short in front, long in back and has ripple sleeves. The fronts cross to the back and tie, the long ends finished with ermine tails.

FIRE DESTROYS CLUB HOUSE AT BUCKEYE LAKE
The clubhouse of the Camera Fishing Club at Buckeye Lake was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. The loss is estimated at $800, which is partly covered by insurance. It is supposed that intruders forced an entrance to the clubhouse and started the fire through carelessness.
Besides the loss on the building, a large personal loss was sustained by members, as four motor boat engines were stored in the basement, as well as an iceboat and other paraphernalia used in summer and winter sports.
The club is an outgrowth of the old Columbus Camera Club and is one of the pioneer clubs of Buckeye Lake. D. W. Wickliff is president, J. D. Brooke is treasurer, and C. E. Johnson, secretary. The winter banquet of the organization was to have been held at the clubhouse December 30.

NEW RECORDS FOR YOUR PHONOGRAPH.
Private Percy Grainger, 15th Coast Artillery, U. S. A., is not compelled to spend all his time playing the oboe as an army bandsman. Private Grainger has been giving concerts for the American Red Cross, and he has played Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody as a new Columbia record. The forceful Grainger personality gives the famous number even more fire and dash than are ordinarily found in it, and there must be something much out of the ordinary in the young pianist's touch, for the reproduction of the tones of the piano is sound of the instrument itself—something long attempted in piano records, and seldom fully attained.
That fiery song of enraged defiance, "Tremble, Ye Tyrants!" from Verdi's "I Trovatore," has been sung by Lazzaro for Columbia, and appears in the January group. Lazzaro's ringing tones are heard to fine advantage in the powerful number, and he takes two high C's with an ease that adds not a little to their thrill.
Unique in dance music are the violin and piano duets made for Columbia by the Jockers brothers. Their latest record contains "The Sun Shines Brighter" and "Just You Watch My Step," both by Jerome Kern, the former a fox trot and the latter a one-step. Several numbers from the musical comedy success "Leave It to Jane" are introduced among them "The Crickets are Calling," "Leave It to Jane" and "I'm Going to Find a Girl."
Brahms' "Lullaby" and Andre's "Alpine Violets" are played for Columbia's January group by a violin, flute and harp trio. There is a rare sweetness and charm in the music produced by this combination of instruments, and these two selections are themselves particularly well to its influence.
Two melodious songs of old Ireland are contributed to the new list of Columbia records by the Stellar Quartette. One of them is O'Hara's tender love lament, "All Erin is Calling Mavourneen." Both are characterized by artistic modulations, rich harmonious and fine full-toned climaxes.
Chopin's thrilling "Polonaise Militaire" is effectively played by the Columbia Symphony Orchestra for the January group. Prince's "La Czarine," played by the Orchestra. The high standard set by Columbia in orchestral music is fully maintained in both of these favorite selections.

TWO PAIRS TWINS MADE BIG LOT OF WORK FOR MOTHER
Caused Mrs. Harris to Be All Run-Down - Nerv-Worth Came to the Rescue.
A royal friend of overworked women is this famous family tonic. The very newest and one of the very strongest proofs of its wonderful merits is the following statement made to the Nerv-Worth druggist at New Castle, Pa., a short time ago:
New Castle Pharmacy—My wife has suffered from severe nervous trouble for four years. Could not sleep and get any rest. Was all run-down from looking after my twin boys, from years old, and another pair of twins nine months old. She doctor'd a great deal but got no relief. Through a friend she was advised to take Nerv-Worth. I purchased a bottle and she at once began to improve. And now, after taking the second bottle she has lost all her nervousness and is rapidly gaining in weight and strength. We surely recommend Nerv-Worth as it has been a blessing to us.

The snow drifts, which are the worst known in this community since the establishment of rural mail delivery, were a very great hindrance to the activities of the carriers during the first half of last week, but the road officials came to the rescue as promptly as possible with shovels, snow plows, sleds, horses and men and by Thursday all main roads were in as good shape as could reasonably be expected. Thanks to the efficiency and promptness of our officials.

SENATE RESUMES INVESTIGATION OF SUGAR SHORTAGE
[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Washington, Dec. 21.—The senate investigation of the sugar shortage was resumed here today with Geo. M. Rolph, director of the food administration's sugar bureau, on the witness stand. The committee was prepared to have Mr. Rolph explain in detail the effect the food administration's price fixing activities had on the situation.
It also was planned to call Food Administrator Hoover but in view of the fact that Mr. Rolph's testimony has barely started, it appeared that Mr. Hoover would not testify before late today or tomorrow.
Some members of the committee are getting impatient because of the amount of time given to the discussion of minor details, so a general "speeding up order" is expected.

FOOD SHORTAGE ABROAD.
Recent statements in American papers that there is no food shortage in France and other allied European countries are denied by the Food Administration.
"Such statements militate against the vital success of America's food conservation program," says the Food Administration.
"Some of the stories published are explained through misunderstanding between Americans recently returned from Europe and the newspaper men to whom they talk. Other stories widely printed could not have been written more completely in the interest of Germany if the Kaiser had penned them himself," says the Food Administration bulletin.
As a sample of how wrong impressions are created, the Food Administration cites the case of Lieut. Robert E. MacKenzie of the French forces, a Canton, O., man who gave out an interview upon his arrival in New York from France. He was quoted as saying that "white bread was again in evidence in the Paris cafes." Lieut. MacKenzie later explained that he said "whiter bread" and not "white bread." Where he was quoted as saying that "there appeared to be plenty of food" he explained that he said "plenty of food for the fighting forces."
Soldiers at the front are being fed and they must continue to be fed. They will still be the last to feel the food shortage. It is also true that food is available in London, Paris, Rome and Berlin for those who have the money to buy it—and it takes a lot. But London is not England, Rome Italy, Paris France nor Berlin Germany. The place where the greatest food shortage exists is in the smaller towns and cities and among the mass of the populations of these countries.

The Cheney Phonograph Plays All Records Better Than You Have Ever Heard Them Played Before

Let the Cheney solve your Christmas gift problem. Make the whole family happy by providing this splendid gift for them all. Science and Art have combined to produce this matchless musical instrument.

The Cheney's wonderful tone is a scientific achievement. Entirely new applications of acoustic principles, covered by basic patents, place the Cheney in a class alone.

The exquisite art of Cheney Cabinet Work, in accepted period styles, commands universal admiration.

These instruments embody many refinements and operative conveniences not found on other phonographs.

The Cheney Violin-Shaped Resonator is carved from the same air-dried spruce used in violins. Just as a fine violin improves with age, so does time add to the richness and mellowness of Cheney tone.

Compare the Cheney with other phonographs. You will hear your favorite records played better than you have ever heard them played before.

A moderate payment down will reserve any model for Christmas delivery.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM:

The Cold Deck.
Never has big Bill Hart, the true representative of America's courageous pioneers, performed more hazardous stunts than in his latest screen production, "The Cold Deck," which will be shown at the Auditorium theatre today and tomorrow. The grim man of the desert, who recently stirred the whole country to a monstrous ovation as he journeyed from California to New York, is absolutely without fear, and yet, curiously enough, is one of the most sensitive of men. It is this striking combination of strength and kindness that has made Bill Hart the most beloved of American actors.

In "The Cold Deck," his new play, he appears as Level Leigh, gambler, who sacrifices everything in order to take his little sister up to the mountains where she may regain her health. Through treachery, he is made to appear guilty of the murder of a stagecoach driver. He is placed in jail, and the vigilante police are preparing the noose for him when he succeeds in bending the bars of his jail window, leaping twenty feet to the ground below and escaping on horse back. The police follow close on his trail, and his capture seems certain, but his daring is greater than theirs, for he deliberately turns his horse toward the edge of a precipice and rides down a break-neck incline.

Three of the most noted beauties of the screen support the noted western actor in this play. They are, Alma Ruben, who has the role of a Spanish adventuress; Mildred Harris, who appears as Hart's sister, and Sylvia Bremer, as the girl he loves.

Sunday's Program.
For Sunday amusement seekers Mr. Fenberg has again arranged a special program and it can again be called a big triple program, for the Orchestra now is considered a Big Special Added Feature at all times, for in the addition of Mr. Frank Reynolds as leader, it has been made 100 per cent better and the Sunday musical program is said to be a dandy. Of course the leading picture feature is dainty June Caprice, William Fox star who is believed to appear in a picture for the first time.

It is a play that gives the "Sunshine Maid" an opportunity for strenuous acting. The big action begins when the United States declares war on Germany and Capitola, June Caprice, does her "bit" by unconvincing traitors who are acting as spies for the enemy. The chief among this band in old Virginia is her uncle, Gabriel Lenoir (Frank Courtleigh, Jr.) who has added her in running down the spies and who has saved her from death twice.

For comedy seekers the Mack Sennett two reel comedy "That Night" with Charles Murray (you all know him) Way and Mack Sennett, William H. Hays, and Gene Rogers, Eva Thatcher, Tom Kennedy, if you're looking for fun, it's "That Night" for yours. In tomorrow's issue of this paper we are going to tell you the story of "That Night" and if you will wait for it, we believe you will be on hand at the Auditorium Sunday at 1 p. m. the time we open. This picture released tomorrow, is seen in Newark the next day—some class to us, eh? The Pathe News will also be shown and it is full of latest current events.

The Manx-Man.
If George Loane Tucker's production of Hall Cain's "The Manx-Man," which Henry J. Brock is to present at the Auditorium theatre, next Wednesday has done nothing else, it has undoubtedly shown to filmland two actors who must hereafter be reckoned among the great ones of the screen. These are Elizabeth Risdon and Fred Groves, respectively Kate and Pete of the play, and they have emphatically made good. Miss Risdon is at present in New York, preparing for further triumphs on the stage, where she has already done so well, but Mr. Groves is among the many of the theatrical world who is now far from the maddest crowd of admirers and fighting somewhere in France for Democracy.

Field Minstrels.
"In Honolulu, or Doing Your Bit," the afterpiece which closes the program of the A. G. Field Greater Minstrels this season, is a regular machine gun of varied effects. It is operatic in scope with a background of spectacle, and yet presents a continually swirl of fun. The comic situations arise from the efforts of an inventor to induce the blackfaced comedians to try out a bullet-proof skin he has devised for use in battle. This humorous strain is interwoven with a plot of stirring action, in which the natives of the tropics resent the presence of the American soldiers and connive at violence. The aid of their mountain deities who respond by producing volcanic eruptions pictures in impressive scale effects out expressed in some imposing musical selections.

The first scene of the extravaganza shows the volcano in full action, and scene represents "A Home in Honolulu" and the third scene "A Fete Night in the Court Square in Honolulu in Honor of Uncle Sam's Army and Navy. Hawaiian numbers, with the exotic charm peculiar to them, are rendered in this setting. Exciting, patriotic tableaux mark the finish, when an American battleship is seen meeting a submarine. The U-boat loses, and the man-of-war hoists the American flag, while song announces to the spectators the "Freedom of the Seas" to Pacific islands and north, the aim of both the author and the sponsor.

Hans and Fritz.
For amusement seekers of the lighter vein, the Auditorium management has arranged with Gus Hill, noted New York producer, to offer to Newark on Christmas day, his latest cartoon musical comedy, Hans and Fritz. It is described as a musical comedy, with pretty girls and vaudeville headlines, original features, novelties and surprises, in three acts and three scenes. It is based on the popular cartoons of R. Dicks, who set the world a-laughing with his Katzenjammer Kids, a comic that won for this artist an immediate fame and fortune. Mr. Hill has done well by this unique creation and the production, which is artistically presented, bids fair to equal in popularity, his greatest triumph, Mutt and Jeff. In this offering, it is said the pair of incoherent youngsters are given plenty of scope to practice their tricks and jokes to their heart's content. They are sure to elicit hearty and mirth, the aim of both the author and the sponsor.

Seats for both matinee and evening performances set on Saturday at 10 a. m. And owing to this being a holiday attraction and an attraction that is assured a sellout for both performances, so it is advisable that all who order seats over the phone, arrange to take them up not later than Monday evening, otherwise they will be placed back in the rack for sale.

New Leading Lady.
Regina Quinn, well known in the world of playboys, will be seen in the new film, "The Prince of New York." It was in an effort to prevent Miss Quinn's career from fading into obscurity that she was injured recently. George is soon to be seen at the Auditorium.

Event With Minstrels.
Many of the prominent minstrels of the country have graduated from the ranks of the A. G. Field company. Many of the headliners in other branches of the amusement profession started with the Field company in some capacity. It has been said if there is latent talent in a person, Al G. Field will find it. Ed Fawcett, a Newark boy, has contracted with the Field company for a term of years, to be known as his minstrel, started young Fawcett in at the bottom. The young man, he developed into one of the most popular of the minstrels. He excels as a dancer and musician. In the near future he will be advanced to one of the principal roles.

The many friends of Fawcett are preparing to give him a rousing greeting when he appears on the stage. The A. G. Field company is forgoing the front as a good thing theatrically. When a manager with the experience of Al G. Field gives two nights of his tour to Newark, the standing of that city as a good show town is assured.

ALHAMBRA.
Tonight and Tomorrow.
Up to the time that Mr. Hoover began his campaign for domestic economy, Miss Minter, who is starred in a new American-Mutual production, "The Mate of the Sally Ann," knew very little about Hooverizing. Scores of her film admirers sent her boxes of letters containing all the way from two pounds to ten pounds and Mary used to pick out the candied fruit and give the rest to whoever happened to want it.

Now the candy boxes that reach Miss Minter are all forwarded without being opened at all to Camp Lewis, where the soldiers make merry with Mary's bon bons. Miss Minter says she is "off candy" for the duration of the war, but that all her presents in that line will go to the soldiers.

Sunday.
"No, I wasn't really afraid, but Mr. Hart was afraid I would be," said little Sessie Love, of the Triangle players. She was speaking of her part in "The Aryan," the Triangle play, in which she plays opposite William S. Hart.

"He told me not to mind anything he did, that he wouldn't hurt me. He is supposed to be a terribly bad man who frightens me every way he can, and he played his part so intensely that it was hard to realize at first that he didn't mean some of it. You see, I'd never worked with him before. But in the play I was supposed to win his sympathy by trusting him absolutely, so, of course, it would never do to feel the least bit disturbed. If you feel it your show, it. So, I didn't. And soon I found what a kind and considerate man he really was, and then it was all splendid."

Auditorium Notes.
Fenberg's slogan, therefore he arranges for the showings of the best comedies—Sunday Mack Sennett offers "That Night" with its 2,000 guaranteed laughs. Sennett is the master fumaker of America and when you see a Paramount-Sennett Comedy advertised, you know its going to be great.

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle taught his dog Luke to hold a line of yarn while the ludicrous comedian in Paramount-Arbuckle comedies was being initiated into the mysteries of knitting. Kathleen Clifford was the instructor.

The Co-Respondent with Elaine Hammerstein comes to the Auditorium soon. This is a big 8 part Jewel feature and wherever shown has attracted much attention.

The plot of "The Manx-Man" the feature that comes to the Auditorium for one day, Dec. 28, according to George Loane Tucker's production of Hall Cain's novel, is replete with all the demonstrations of real pathos and yet because it is, "a comic relief" decent consist of farce, but actual humor, the sort that while you laugh at it you are fearful of near-by tears. These are caused by the fact that the light rod is supplied by a baby—and here new was such an interesting baby in the world as the Baby-in-Chief in "The Manx-Man."

OBITUARY

Funeral of Mrs. Sarah Banks.
The funeral of Sarah Maria Banks was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Stevens, 27 Madison avenue, this morning. Services were conducted at the Rocky Fork church at eleven o'clock and interment was made at the Rocky Fork cemetery.

Obituary.
Mrs. Effie L. Brown was born November 4, 1864 in Alexandria, O. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barrick. She united with the Methodist church in early girlhood at Granville, O., where most of her life was spent. She was devoted to her church and lived a truly Christian life. She was united in marriage to S. S. Brown, May 21, 1896, at her home in Granville, and they have resided in Newark their entire married life. Besides her husband she leaves five sons and one brother to mourn her loss, and a host of sorrowing friends.

Card of Thanks.
We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for the kindness and tokens of sympathy expressed during the illness and after the departing of our loved wife and sister, Mrs. S. S. Brown. The beautiful tributes of respect as expressed by Rev. Mr. Walters at the last sad rites are especially cherished by us. The many flowers that were sent to the home where she could yet enjoy them were particularly appreciated, as were the many beautiful floral offerings after she was called away.—Husband, Brother and Sister. 11*

Card of Thanks.
We desire to thank all who assisted us at the departure of our dear sister, Mrs. Keaviah Krepes. To the neighbors for the floral offerings, the Bradley's Undertakers and especially to her pastor, Rev. Mr. L.

Sparks for the beautiful words of condolence. Her brother and sister, Mr. Fred Bonner, Mrs. Fred Barrill, 12-21-d-11

NOT KNITTING SOCKS FOR BOARD MEMBERS

It has developed that the story regarding the class in domestic science knitting socks for superintendent Wilson Hawkins and the members of the board of education, was a hoax. Miss Edith Clark, superintendent of the domestic science department, admitted modestly today that her pupils were doing a great deal of knitting, but that their efforts were in behalf of Uncle Sam's soldier boys instead of making samples of their work for the board members.

Popham-Jewell.
The marriage of Miss Ethel G. Jewell and Mr. Thomas Earl Popham took place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage of the East Main Street U. B. church, Rev. A. B. Cox officiating. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. Stout. The bride's home is in St. Louisville, while Mr. Popham lives in Utica. They will be at home in St. Louisville.

Bishop-Johnson.
On Thursday afternoon at two o'clock Miss Gladys Mae Johnson of Johnstown became the bride of Mr. Lester A. Bishop of Alexandria. The ceremony was read by Dr. L. C. Sparks at his home in North Fifth street in the presence of Mr. Morris Severn and Miss Josephine Bishop. They will reside at Alexandria.

Holly and other Christmas greens festooned the dining room at the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening when the Licking County Medical society entertained the physicians and their wives with the annual banquet.

The appointed hour was eight o'clock, and mounds of holly and evergreen, were used on the tables with poinsettias. An elaborate menu of six courses was served to about forty.

A short talk was given following the serving of the menu by Dr. Homer J. Davis, president of the society, who was followed by Dr. W. D. Rank, president-elect. Both talked of the aims and work of the society. Dr. H. D. Hunt, introduced the principal speaker of the evening, Prof. Chas. Newcomb, dean of oratory and expression at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Prof. Newcomb gave an interesting program of miscellaneous readings and expressions, and his presentation was greatly enjoyed.

Reed-Blackburn.
Mr. John L. Reed and Miss Edith Pearl Blackburn, both of Martinsburg, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. J. A. Long of Mt. Vernon. They will make their home in Martinsburg.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Miss Burdelle Holtsberry, Bowers avenue, Thursday evening, for Miss Holtsberry whose marriage to Frank Moore of Columbus, will take place this month. The hours were informally spent and luncheon was served the following guests.

Misses Burdelle Holtsberry, Minnie Willey, Grace McMahony, Campbell, Pay Shirer, Lelah Taylor, Mabel Stevenson, June Duerr, Myrtle Duerr, Vada Viall, Ella Bain, Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. Obie Hartshorn and Mrs. S. M. Holtsberry.

The employees of the public service department and Mayor R. C. Bigbee assembled at the home of William C. Christian, retiring service director, on Thursday evening, to surprise him. Mr. Christian was detained down town by his brother until the guests assembled at his home in West Main street. The event was a complete surprise and a delicious supper was served by the sister of Mr. Christian. The employees presented him with a handsome desk.

A charming Christmas party was given by the members of the Thursday Evening Sewing club last evening at the home of Miss Bessie Taafel in Sixth street. The house was arranged with Christmas greens and the club Christmas gifts were found in the fish pond. But amongst the Christmas gifts was a surprise packet which came as a surprise to club members and the hostess. It contained the announcements of the marriage of one of the members, Miss Edith Louise Woodward to Mr. Donald Gordon Leith, which was solemnized December 14, 1917, at Milan, Mich. The ceremony was in the double ring service of the Presbyterian church and was read by the bridegroom's father, Rev. Thomas B. Leith. The wedding took place at the home of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Leith came home at once being called here by the illness of her father.

The bride was overwhelmed with best wishes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Woodward, and has been one of the most successful pupils as a popular teacher in the local schools. This fall he has been attending the Michigan State Normal school, and while at school met Mr. Leith. He joins her here tomorrow to remain until after the holidays when they will be at home near Detroit, Mich.

The Fairmount Ladies' Aid society met Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Richardson, northwest of Jacksontown. The women were engaged in sewing. The usual routine of business was transacted. It was decided that the next regular meeting will be held in January, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jury, south of Jacksontown.

MODESTY MARKS
BRITISH FLYER

Achievements of the Airmen Are Not Advertised.

DROPS 125 TONS OF BOMBS

Royal Corps in One Month Downs 152 German Machines and Disables 122—David Henderson, Head of Air Board, Holds "It Does Not Pay to Advertise" Air Warfare.

The royal flying corps is the least advertised branch of the British army. As the preface to a long interview on the work and achievements of that service, Maj. Gen. Sir David Henderson, head of the air board, explained the reason for this studied modesty.

"Other air services," he said, "advertise individual fighters and thus advertise the service. We don't because the fighting airman is but a small part of the air personnel and not the most important at that. In many ways he has the best of the work. His part is the most spectacular and he gets the best machines.

"But a fighter is only sent up to protect the bombing, reconnaissance and range-finding machines, whose work is the most valuable. We believe that by advertising individual fighters we would kill the spirit of the other flyers. Our system gives us a higher average standard. With a week's notice we could transfer the personnel of a fighting squadron to a reconnaissance squadron, or vice versa, with perfectly satisfactory results.

Develops Spirit of Airmen.

"But what is much better, we have developed the spirit of the squadron. If you ask an airman back from the front how many Boche he downed he won't tell you. But he will say with pride: 'Our squadron got sixteen last week,' or whatever the number might be. That is the proper spirit for the service.

"And another thing, we don't go in for 'peace' or propaganda flying. We are too busy killing Huns.

General Henderson then turned to the work of the flying corps.

"The corps has multiplied between 70 and 100 times in men and material since the war began. We have had the heaviest air work of any of the allies and just now are experiencing the toughest bit of the war.

"One reason for our large losses is that our policy has always been to get the jump on the enemy. It is costly, but the only policy if one has the means to pursue it. Some time ago the Germans realized this, as we established by orders found. But beyond short, spasmodic attempts, they have never succeeded in getting the offensive.

Carry Fighting to Germans.

"The result has been that most of the air fighting is on the German side of the line and few are downed on our side. Even as far back as the battle of the Somme we had the jump on the Boche. There was not a German machine within ten miles of the battle line.

"An idea of the actual work of the service at the front may be gained from September's statistics. During that month we downed 139 German planes in air fighting and 13 by anti-aircraft gunfire; downed 122 out of control, dropped 125 tons of bombs, took 16,000 photographs, directed artillery fire against 1,372 batteries and flew the equivalent of four and three-fourths years."

General Henderson partly exploded the popular idea that the youngest men make the best flyers.

"For fighters, perhaps yes," said he, "but for the other branches of the service the older men, up to thirty-five, are steadier, more persistent and exercise better judgment."

He was very doubtful about the practicability of extensive standardization of airplane construction.

"You may standardize your engine," he said, "but plane construction changes so rapidly that if you standardize for large scale production you are apt to find yourself with a number of antiquated machines on your hands."

RELATIVES IN THE WAR

A Census Shows That Mrs. Sullivan Has Twenty-Three of Them.

Mrs. J. A. Sullivan of Mountville, W. Va., has completed a census of her relatives in the present war, and she finds that twenty-three have been enlisted into the armies of the allies. The number enlisted includes grandsons and nephews. Twenty-one are on the firing line in Europe, five brothers from Wales and the others from England.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Editor of the Advocate:—Please pardon my tardiness in acknowledging the fine medal you so kindly sent me, but my time now belongs to Uncle Sam and I can snatch only a few minutes now and then. Nevertheless I greatly appreciate it and I am so fortunate as to be called to France, Licking county's gift will go with me on the string around my neck where it already is. I have replaced the government issue identification tags.

I enjoy my work very much, being located in the surgical ward of the base hospital. The training given here is most interesting; I am fortunate enough to be in the ward which has the head of the surgical department, this hospital, as its ward surgeon. This hospital will accommodate 1500 men. has a staff of fifty officers, seventy-five Red Cross nurses and four hundred men. Some sixty-odd buildings in a well-arranged group provide splendid equipment for treatment of everything from measles to gun-shot. The officers in charge are all competent men and are doing wonderful work in the serious cases that have already arisen.

Accept again my thanks for the gift and a repetition of the hope that my tardiness will be pardoned.

Very truly yours, T. C. Neal, Camp Greene, N. C.

BOWSER BUYS A FAST PACER AT CHICAGO SALE

Paul Bowser, local wrestler, purchased the well known bay stallion pacer, Major Hardie, Tuesday at the second annual sale of the Chicago Horse Sale Co., at the stock yards in the Windy City.

Bowser, who as all well informed horsemen are aware, has a splendid track record of winnings for his owner. The latter, going out of the business put the horse up at public auction. His official record is 2:08 1/2, making him eligible to the 2:08 pacers class. Last season he started eight times, winning two of them, and in the season ending in the money in every race.

In the year 1916 Major Hardie won a number of events, including straight heats, the poorest of which he paced in 2:09 1/2.

Bowser will campaign the horse the coming season, playing fair dates with his athletic show and also entering the horse where eligible. He will do his own training and driving. Major Hardie may be seen here on the local track early in September.

ALEXANDER WILL NOT BE PAID ANY PART OF THE PURCHASE PRICE

New York, Dec. 21.—Grover Alexander, star pitcher for the Philadelphia Nationals, recently sold to the Chicago Nationals with Catcher Killefer for $50,000, will receive no part of the purchase money, according to President William Baker of the Philadelphia club.

Alexander wants any bonus he must look to it from President Weagham of Chicago," said Baker here last night. "I see no reason why we should turn any of the money received for Alexander over to that player."

"As a matter of fact, there is no need of Alexander signing a new contract with Chicago. We've already signed his contract, which covers the seasons of 1918 and 1919; over to the Chicago club. By the provisions of the new contracts signed by players last spring they agreed to go to whatever club they are sent, whether major or minor, at the same or smaller salary."

OFFENDERS FACE MAYOR BIGBEE IN POLICE COURT

Police court has been uneventful for the past few days, a few cases of drunkenness and fighting being the only misdemeanors to claim the attention of Mayor R. C. Bigbee. Hugh Diehl, who formerly made Newark his headquarters, but now haunts the city and imbibes too freely. He was arrested for being drunk, disorderly, fighting an officer and using profane language. He was fined $5 on each of the first three charges and $15 and costs on the fourth one.

Charles Ayres, who gave his residence as Dayton was arrested for being drunk, begging and using profane language. He was fined $5 and costs on each of the three charges.

of the latter organization General Glenn and Governor Cox welcomed the chance to combine the directing of the two under Mr. Garfield.

The Red Cross is preparing to help give every select in camp the merriest sort of a Christmas. Additional gifts of sweaters, wristlets, helmets, tobacco, candy, knives, safety razors and other useful articles are arriving daily and officials say every soldier here will be remembered on Christmas Day.

All men who go home for the holidays will be given a letter from the trains. An order issued yesterday says that all men who will be granted leave will be given written passes or furloughs which they can show as evidence that they are on leave. Military police will arrest all men who fail to have the written authority for their absence, the order says.

Word arriving in camp to the effect that applicants for appointments to the third officers reserve training camp to be held beginning January 5, are receiving word of their appointment, has increased the eagerness of the men to learn their "fates." Company commanders were busy yesterday in some of the regiments personally examining applicants preparatory to making up final lists to be sent to division headquarters where the final choice of the 400 men who will receive appointments will be made.

A few more days of sunshine and the select will be able to get out doors again to resume their training schedules in real earnest. The snow and ice is going fast and it will not be long before the men can get into action. It was said at division headquarters today that rifle practice is scheduled to begin on the new rifle range on December 27. It had been originally planned for this week but bad to be postponed on account of the weather.

CHARLES ZEUBLIN FAMOUS LECTURER IN TOWN TODAY

Prof. Charles Zeublin, lecturer, teacher and writer of nation-wide reputation and influence, who stopped in Newark to visit his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Zeublin of Locust street, left for his home this afternoon to spend Christmas with his family. Professor Zeublin talked entertainingly with an Advocate man before leaving for the East and the conversation naturally turned to the war. Prof. Zeublin takes an optimistic view of the situation and believes that it will be through Russia that the German people will be made to see the light and realize conditions of which they are not now aware because of the autocratic rule in Germany. Prof. Zeublin is much interested in the government's new $2-000,000,000 Thrift Stamp and War Savings certificate issue and sees in it not only strong financial support of the government but the bringing together of millions of our people in the common cause for which we are fighting, to say nothing of the great value the cultivation of the habit of saving will bring to the people.

LOCAL MAN WILL ASSIST NEWSIES IN CHARITY SALE

Henry Coen, Ford agent in this city, has wired the Columbus Newsies that he will help them in their big sale tomorrow. Newsies, many of them at great distances from the city, will be home for the day to help the sale of the Ohio State Journal's big charity issue. The Charity Newsies sale is an annual affair and it is hoped this year to break all records. The first newspaper has already been sold for $500 by Hugh K. Lindsay.

THRIFT STAMPS FOR CHRISTMAS

Chairman C. H. Spencer of the War Savings Committee, announced this afternoon that all postoffices are authorized to sell Thrift stamps and War Savings certificates in any amount where the stamps are to be used as gifts. The purchaser is required to file with the postmaster
the names of the donees at the time of the purchase. No donee is to receive more than $1000 in war savings stamps. Postmasters will be permitted to supply purchasers with the necessary certificates and Thrift cards.

A suggestion has been made to many employers and has been published in the newspapers that Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates instead of money be given as Christmas presents this year. The war certificates can be converted into cash at any time. They are non-taxable and bear a 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly. Thrift Stamps cost 25c each and the present price of $5 war savings certificates is $4.12.

Sixteen 25 cent Thrift Stamps and 12 cents in cash may be exchanged for a $5 war savings certificate.
Many are arranging to give Thrift Cards with one or more 25 cent stamps attached as Christmas presents.

The Sick

Mrs. Carrie McCall, South Third street, was removed from her home to the City hospital yesterday in the Bradley ambulance.

Mrs. Mame Cattr, who had a wisdom-tooth extracted at the office of Dr. W. G. Corne, was removed to her home, 443 Central avenue, in the Bradley ambulance yesterday.

AN AMBULANCE OR A FENCE?
"Twas a dangerous cliff, as they freely confessed,
Though to walk near its crest was so pleasant.
But over its terrible edge there had slipped
A Duke and full many a peasant.
So the people said something would have to be done.
But there profits did not at all tally.
Some said: "Put a fence around the edge of the cliff."
Some: "An ambulance down in the valley."

The cry for the ambulance carried the day.
For it spread through the neighboring city.
A fence may be useful or not, it is true.
But each word was born full of pity
For those who slipped over the dangerous cliff.
And dwellers in highway and valley
Gave pound or pence, not to put up a fence.
But an ambulance down in the valley.

"For the cliff is alright if you are careful," they said.
"And if folks ever slip or are dropping."
It was the slipping that hurts them so much.
As the shock down below when they're stopping.
Then an old sage remarked: "It's a marvel to me
That people give far more attention
To repairing results than to stopping the cause.
When they'd much better aid in prevention."

"Let us stop at its source all this mischief!" he cried.
"Come, neighbors and friends, let us fence it."
If the cliff we will fence we might almost dispense
With the ambulance down in the valley.
"Oh, he's a fanatic!" the others rejoined.
"Dispense with the ambulance? Never!
He'd dispense with all charities, too, if he could."
But, no, we'll protect them forever."

"Aren't we picking up folks just as fast as they fall?"
And shall this man dictate to us? Shall he?
Why should people of sense stop to put up a fence
While their ambulance works in the valley?"

The number of Red Cross Christmas Seals but will decide whether you support the ambulance or the fence.

ASKS ALIMONY.

Bessie Tabler filed a petition in Probate Court against Louis E. Tabler on a charge of cruel treatment and non support. The plaintiff asks for permanent alimony. The young people were married in Dec. 24, 1916, in this city, and have one child. An injunction was granted restraining defendant from disposing of his property.

grades of St. Francis de Sales school

Fair Trial by Jury.

Is our client beautiful?
I guess you'd call her beautiful as a point of law. Still, she's no chicken. Better pick out a jury of near-sighted men.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cost of raising the Red Cross War Fund last June was a fraction above one-half of one per cent of the total.
$119,000,000 raised, according to the semi-annual report of the War Council just issued. General Manager H.
D. Gibson, of the American Red Cross, is authority for the statement that this humanitarian situation is

MILK

The Present Supply of Milk Seems to Indicate Per Capita Allowance of About One-Third Quart a Day

Use every ounce of the available milk supply in every form.

Increase the use of cheese, which utilizes the milk more completely than does butter.

Lessen the waste of buttermilk and skim milk. Buy whole milk, not cream; use the top for coffee, cereal, etc., and the rest for drinking or cooking.

Use all sour milk, if clean and wholesome.

Utilize the whey from cheese in bread making.

Substitute water ices for creams as desserts.

Green leaf vegetables may partly replace butter.

Save on butter by serving smaller portions, serving again when more is really desired. Do not stint, however, on butter for children, especially if they do not get an abundance of milk (unskimmed).

Use no butter in cooking.

EDITOR CHAS. LONG PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN THRIFT CAMPAIGN

Mr. Charles L. H. Long, editor of the American Tribune, has consented to act as chairman of the publicity committee for the Thrift Stamp and War Savings campaign in Licking county. As this campaign is to continue throughout the year in order to bring the matter to the attention of every resident and to induce all the men, women and children of the county to open savings accounts with Uncle Sam, it will be seen that Mr. Long has something of a job on his hands.

Like all others who are interested in this plan of the government to promote thrift and to help win the war, Mr. Long will serve without compensation. The national chairman of the Thrift campaign is Frank A. Vanderlip, head of the Standard Oil and president of America's largest bank, who gave up all his private business to conduct this work for the government. Mr. Vanderlip is the only "salaried" man in the organization but his salary is exactly one dollar for the entire year.

We make mention of just a few of them—if you do not find here what you want, ask for it.
